New lines. New designs. New exclusive introductions. Now.

Let the SHOW Begin

1 MoMo Panache introduces its Happy Hour Cordial Collection, bottle stoppers and cordial glasses all in one, the mouth-blown, cut and hand-painted items retail for $14.99 apiece. 2 The Towle Living Gourmet Gatherings 42-piece buffet set includes 12 three-piece place settings of "Timeless Royal Thread" flatware plus a six-piece hostess set, wood buffet caddy and wood hostess caddy. 3 New bottle vases from tag were inspired by vintage medicine bottles. They are sold in a set of four. 4 Herend's new fishnet color, key lime, is presented in a selection of 18 popular figurines, including the conch shell. 5 Melanico's Sentiment Photo Mouse Pad holds a 4-by-6 photo and provides a way to display favorite memories. It retails for $5.99.

A NEW YEAR BRINGS A RUSH OF OPTIMISM and a sense of possibility. Tabletop and gift vendors are tapping into that sense of renewal with fresh product assortments for the Atlanta International Gift & Home Furnishings Show this week. The color green, often associated with new beginnings, dominates several new collections. It is a soft, mossy green, often paired with off-white, and it is turning up in Christmas collections as well as year-round items. Natural inspirations—branches, birds, pinecones, water—also provide inspiration for this season's new products. ■

6 Holly Birds, from Certified International and designed by Susan Winget, continues the popular nature story trend with bright red cardinals and includes hand-painted and three-dimensional tabletop, serveware and accessories. 7 Lenox is introducing a series of ivory china Christmas night lights that includes this angel, as well as a snowflake and a Christmas tree. 8 Fitz & Floyd's Winter Garden collection, which includes lighting, serveware and accessories, embodies vintage flair with its combination of green and antique white. 9 The Corinth bowl from Simon Pearce, part of its Classic Collection, is made from hand-blown glass and comes in two sizes. 10 Sagalorn extends its popular Juicy series with stackable dessert dishes. 11 Jacqueline Cambata Designs' Elephant Shantih dineware features imagery from the Moghul Empire of 16th-century India and is made in Limoges, France.
